

ROOSEVELT WILL ACCEPT NOMINATION IF TENDERED HIM BY THE CONVENTION

Replies to Republican Governors in Letter Made Public During Absence on a Trip to Boston

FAVORS DIRECT PRIMARIES TO SELECT DELEGATES

The Colonel States He Has No Plans Beyond the Present and Would Not Talk Politics When Boston Crowd Called Upon Him at Home of Friend--Will Reiterate What He Said in Columbus Speech and Put it in Plainer English

New York, Feb. 26.—"I will accept the nomination for president if it is tendered me, and I will adhere to this decision until the convention has expressed its preference," is Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's reply to the letter of seven Republican governors asking him to stand for nomination.

The eagerly awaited reply was given out Sunday night at Colonel Roosevelt's offices here during his absence on a trip to Boston. It was unexpectedly brief, but definite. It follows:

"Gentlemen: I deeply appreciate your letter, and I realize to the full the heavy responsibility it puts upon me, expressing as it does the carefully considered convictions of the men elected by popular vote to stand as the heads of government in their several states.

"I absolutely agree with you that this matter is not one to be decided with any reference to the personal preferences or interests of any man, but purely from the standpoint of the interests of the people as a whole. I will accept the nomination for president if it is tendered to me and I will adhere to this decision until the convention has expressed its preference. One of the chief principles for which I have stood and for which I now stand, and which I have always endeavored and always shall endeavor to reduce to action, is the genuine rule of the people, and therefore I hope that so far as possible the people may be given the chance, through direct primaries, to express their preference as to who shall be the nominee of the Republican presidential convention.

Very truly yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"The Hon. William E. Glasscock, Governor of the State of West Virginia, Charleston, W. Va.

"The Hon. Chester H. Aldrich, Governor of the State of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb.

"The Hon. Robert P. Bass, Governor of the State of New Hampshire, Concord, N. H.

"The Hon. Joseph M. Carey, Governor of the State of Wyoming, Cheyenne, Wyo.

"The Hon. Chase S. Osborn, Governor of the State of Michigan, Lansing, Mich.

"The Hon. W. R. Stubbs, Governor of the State of Kansas, Topeka, Kansas.

"The Hon. Herbert S. Hadley, Governor of the State of Missouri, Jefferson City, Mo."

Governors Demand Cause of Letter From Roosevelt

New York, Feb. 26.—The governors, to whom the foregoing letter is addressed, assembled at Chicago two weeks ago and drafted a letter to Colonel Roosevelt, asserting that there was a popular demand for him to be president again and urging him to declare himself as to whether he would accept the Republican nomination if "it came unsolicited and unsought."

For two weeks Colonel Roosevelt considered the letter, indicating plainly that he had no intention of making a hasty reply. The governors' letter follows:

"Chicago, Feb. 10, 1912.

"We, the undersigned Republican governors, assembled for the purpose of considering what will best insure the continuance of the Republican party as a useful agency of good government, declare it our belief, after a careful investigation of the facts, that a large majority of the Republican voters of the country favor your nomination, and a large majority of the people favor your election, as the next president of the United States.

"We believe that your candidacy will insure success in the next campaign. We believe that you represent, as no other man represents, those principles and policies upon which we must appeal for a majority of the votes of the American people, and which in our opinion, are necessary for the happiness and prosperity of the country.

"We believe that in view of this public demand you should soon declare whether, if the nomination for the presidency came to you unsolicited and unsought, you will accept it.

"In submitting this request we are not considering your personal interests. We do not regard it as proper to consider either the interests or the preference of any man as regards the nomination for the presidency. We are expressing our sincere belief and best judgment as to what is demanded of you in the interests of the people as a whole. And we feel that you would be unresponsive to a plain public duty if you should decline to accept the nomination, coming as the voluntary expression of a majority of the Republican voters of the United States, through the action of their delegates in the next national convention."

And we feel that you would be unresponsive to a plain public duty if you should decline to accept the nomination, coming as the voluntary expression of a majority of the Republican voters of the United States, through the action of their delegates in the next national convention."

WOODROW WILSON DEFINES REAL LOCAL OPTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson has defined and authorized the making public of his views on local option. The declaration of his position is contained in a statement issued from the headquarters of his managers in Washington and are those which he set forth in a letter to Rev. Thomas B. Shannon, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in New Jersey. The governor says:

"I am in favor of local option. I am a thorough believer in local self government, and believe that every self governing community which constitutes a social unit should have the right to control the matter of the regulation or of the with-holding of licenses.

"But the questions involved are social and moral and are not susceptible of being made parts of a party program. Whenever they have been made the subject matter of party contests they have cut the lines of party organization and party action athwart, to the utter confusion of political action in every other field.

"They have thrown every other question, however important into the background, and have made constructive party action impossible for long years together. So far as I myself am concerned, therefore, I can never consent to have the question of local option made an issue between political parties in this state.

"I do not believe that party progress of the highest consequence to the political life of the state and the nation ought to be thrust on one side and hopelessly embarrassed for long periods together by making a political issue of a great question which is essentially non-political, non-partisan, moral and social in its nature."

Wilson's statement, Governor Wilson was more specific in defining his position in favor of local option with the community as the unit in which he affirmed the doctrine that each community should have the right to govern itself.

NEW YORK WILL GO 200,000 DEMOCRATIC

Is Prediction, if Roosevelt is Nominated by the Republicans for President.

New York, Feb. 25.—Men in touch with the national political situation received the news of Mr. Roosevelt's letter last night, as something they had long expected. Many of them said that they had looked for some such announcement for months, and were aware of Mr. Roosevelt's intention to enter the campaign long ago. By far the greater part of them said that this had small chance of capturing the nomination, but even if he does he cannot carry his own state at the polls.

Herbert Parsons, once president of the New York County Republican Committee said that New York State will go Democratic by 200,000 if any strong Democrat is nominated against Mr. Roosevelt. He added that action will interfere with Mr. Roosevelt's usefulness to the country.

Norman E. Mack said: "This announcement of Mr. Roosevelt will make Democratic success at the polls this fall more certain. No matter whether the nominee is Mr. Taft or Mr. Roosevelt, we have a much better chance than we did last week."

"Not only will Mr. Roosevelt be much easier to defeat than President Taft; but the whole situation created by his sudden interjection of himself into the campaign is favorable to Democratic success. The Republican party will be split wide open."

Bryan at Columbus.

Columbus, Feb. 26.—Col. Wm. Jennings Bryan has accepted the invitation of the Jefferson Club to speak here on April 12 at the annual banquet.

NEW OIL AND GAS COMPANY INCORPORATED

Among today's incorporations at Columbus was that of the Newark Consolidated Gas & Oil Company, to drill for oil and gas. The incorporation was $10,000, 100 shares at $100 each, and was incorporated by A. H. Helsey, Carl Norpell, J. M. Phillips, A. H. Rickert and Ray Martin.

"On the 4th of March next I shall have served three and a half years, and this three and a half years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regarding the substance and not the form, and under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept any nomination."

SAME OLD STORY OF HUNTING GAS. LEAK WITH MATCH

Hamilton, Feb. 26.—John Isseman and daughter Cora were probably fatally injured in a natural gas explosion at their home today, which tore away the entire side of the house and wrecked the building. The explosion occurred when Isseman went to hunt a gas leak with a lighted match.

CON. CON. DELEGATES WILL NOT ABIDE BY THE CAUCUS

Columbus, Feb. 26.—Positive declarations were made today by the Constitutional delegates who have had part in the Bigelow-Crosser caucuses on the initiative and referendum that they will not abide by the caucus decision if the form of the proposal now suggested is adopted. Leaders among those to assert they will not be bound are the Montgomery county delegates. These have already taken an active part in all the conferences. Knight and Harbarger of Franklin county also refused to be bound by any act of the caucus, although they have both taken an active part. It is declared that 57 delegates to the convention were pledged to the 8, 10, or 12 percent form and that they will not be bound by anything more radical.

Stokes asserted that labor organizations of Dayton had petitioned him to stand by this form and he intended to represent those organizations. It was explained that the minority members of the caucus would have enough support from the initiative and referendum delegates in the convention who were not asked to take part in the conference to make a majority.

COACHES THROWN INTO A DITCH

Columbus, Feb. 26.—Two freight trains and a fast passenger train were involved in a double wreck near Unionville, Union county, 20 miles northwest of Columbus, Sunday. Although the engine and two of the coaches of the passenger train ran into the ditch, none of the passengers was injured, aside from being badly shaken up.

ANOTHER SNOW STORM COMING

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Storm conditions today extend from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic coast with rain and snow. A heavy fall of wet snow is reported north of the Ohio river. A heavy snow is reigning throughout the lake regions and the Ohio Valley. Both railroad and telegraph companies experienced great delays.

DENY REPORT OF A BATTLE

Washington, Feb. 26.—The crisis has arrived at Juarez and reports say that 700 insurgent troops landed from a train on the Mexican Central railroad today at 10 o'clock. It is said that hostilities have already begun between the outposts. During the skirmishes last night it is said one was killed and two wounded.

El Paso, Feb. 26.—El Paso officials are at a loss to explain the report that a battle was imminent for they say no firing had occurred at Juarez up to 10 o'clock. Railroad employees report all is quiet.

DOUBLE TORNADO FOR ARKANSAS

Little Rock, Feb. 26.—A double tornado devastated a part of Lincoln, Jefferson and Arkansas counties Sunday and the death list is placed at ten with twenty-five severely hurt. Hand-some homes, and plantations at Lincoln were destroyed.

Despite the immense number of automobiles built in France, that country imported nearly three times as many cars last year as in 1910.

Official statistics show that more people take their own lives in San Francisco in proportion to population, than in any other city on the Continent.

RECEIVER APPOINTED THIS AFTERNOON FOR THE HOWELL COMPANY

Nathan Prad has filed in the Common Pleas court a petition against the G. E. Howell Provision Co., in which he says that the defendant company is insolvent, has paid no dividends for more than two years, and at the present time is unable to pay its obligations in full. The petitioner asks for the appointment of a receiver to take possession and charge of the assets of the corporation; that an inventory and appraisal be ordered; that the receiver be empowered to borrow money to preserve the assets of the company and to issue certificates for money borrowed not to exceed $20,000.

The matter came on for hearing on Monday afternoon in Common Pleas court. After hearing the statements of counsel and the evidence, the court thought that the interests of the company and stockholders would be best subserved by appointing a receiver, and appointed A. Nelson Dodd, bond to be given in the sum of $50,000. Mr. Dodd has been with the company a number of years, is familiar with the business and is now acting as treasurer.

The capital stock of the Howell Provision Company is $200,000, of which $132,300 in common stock and $37,950 in preferred stock was paid. The assets of the company amount to $198,000, the liabilities $260,000. The creditors of the company will be paid in full, the loss falling upon the stockholders of the company. There is a large number of stockholders, among them being many well known residents of Newark and farmers of Licking county.

PLAYED SLEUTH AND RECOVERED PROPERTY BEFORE INFORMING LOCAL DEPARTMENT OF CASE

Harry Lamb, a butcher at Thornville is some detective. He was the victim of a sneak thief Friday afternoon and on Saturday he came to Newark, ferreted out the thief, located his property, secured the value of the same in money and then told the police what he had done. Mr. Lamb believes in the adage "If you want a thing well done do it yourself."

Some time Friday afternoon a sneak thief entered a rear room at the Lamb meat market and stole two green hides. When Mr. Lamb discovered his loss, he came to Newark to inquire into the matter. He located the hides at Wilson's place on Spencer street, where he learned that Mr. Wilson had purchased them from H. Deininger of Newark. Lamb hunted up Deininger and got the $10 which Deininger received for the hides. Deininger claimed he purchased the hides of two men at Thornport Friday afternoon. Deininger denied that he was in the village during the day.

The same day a sack of corn was stolen from the barn of Amos Hite in Thornville and this fact has been turned over to the police of this city who will make an investigation in an effort to connect up the two robberies.

WOULD HAVE GOVERNMENT TAKE OVER EXPRESS BUSINESS

Washington, Feb. 26.—Senator Gardner of Maine today introduced a bill, which provides the government take over the property of the express companies and operate them as a part of the postal system, and extends the service to the rural districts. The bill means an expenditure of $39,165,819. It is proposed that the rates for express service by the government should be passed on the rates on size and weight. The power to fix the rates

STRIKERS AND POLICE IN BATTLE

Riot and Bloodshed at Lawrence Mass., Early Today

SCORES ARE INJURED

When Metropolitan Police Charged Crowd of 10,000 Cracking Heads of Men and Women.

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 26.—Riotous scenes in which one man is known to have been shot, scores injured and 50 arrests of men and women occurred today, following a shooting affair in Common street, in the Italian district.

The police version of the affair is that a squad of 15 special police was passing when a tenement window was thrown up and a hand holding a .44 calibre revolver was stuck out. A shot was fired and another window was raised and a hand thrust forth holding a revolver. A second shot was fired and then the special police began shooting at the windows. Fifty or more bullets rattled against the windows and doors of the tenements.

Carmelo Milaz, a striker, was shot in the back as he ran from the scene. Three of five men, all standing in an alley from which Milaz could not possibly have been seen, were arrested and charged with murder. All three had cracked heads when they were thrown into cells at police headquarters. The police say Salvatore Bruno, one of the prisoners, had a smoking gun in his hand when taken. Two of the crowd got away. A crowd of nearly 10,000 gathered as if by magic at the sound of shots. Many persons had gone to the station early having been told another attempt would be made to send children to Philadelphia. The crowd was composed of men and women strikers.

The excitement in Common street having subsided, the strikers turned down the street toward North station and thence to Essex street, the principal thoroughfare. All were singing. None was disorderly. They resembled a great crowd turning out for a gala event, except when scores of police dashed recklessly in and out of the crowd when they were booed and hissed, the jeers being succeeded by a peculiar buzzing hum as if made from millions of bees.

During all this time the police, admittedly fearful of leaving their seats in automobiles and big freight drays were being urged by officers of the militia to "go in and break them up." For some reason not an armed militiaman was seen during the entire affair. The strikers still singing patriotic airs and keeping far enough apart so as not to block the street and pavement totally reached Jackson street without molestation. Here were standing 75 members of the Metropolitan state police, gray, uniformed, and swinging wagon spokes.

As the head of the advancing singers reached Jackson street and at a signal, the metropolitan police formed a flying wedge and, raining blows on heads and hands and shoulders regardless of sex, charged the crowd. As the gray coats charged, 100 or more bluecoats who had dashed up in automobiles, jumped to the street and joined the attack about 50 yards from the corner.

From the point where blue coats rushed the crowd on Jackson street, men, women and young girls were beaten by brute force and compelled to turn into Jackson street and head toward the common.

PRESIDENT TO ACT.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—Representative Berger of Wisconsin, after calling at the White House today said that President Taft had promised to take up with Attorney General Wickersham the Lawrence, Mass., strike. Representative Henry, chairman of the House Rules committee, announced the committee would act on the Berger resolution for an investigation of the labor conditions at Lawrence.

NARROW ESCAPES IN HOTEL FIRE

Portland, Feb. 26.—Two men are dead and several are supposed to have perished in a fire that broke out in the Gilman House today. Edward Gilmore, 50, dropped dead from excitement, and an unidentified man leaped from the fourth floor and met his death on the pavement. Fifty men, women and children had narrow escapes.

BOARD OF TRADE SENDS BULLETIN TO 755 MEMBERS

Calling Attention to Meeting Next Thursday Night and to Various Matters.

The seven hundred and fifty-five members of the Board of Trade received in today's mail a twelve page Bulletin calling attention to a membership meeting to be held on next Thursday evening and bringing to their attention various matters in which the organization is interested.

The keynote of the Bulletin is "Boost Newark," and this can best be done by organized effort.

Last week notices were sent out to all members asking them to mail suggestions to the program committee—a post card was provided for the reply. Many cards are being received in answer to this request and many of the suggestions received are interesting and valuable. It is the intention to bring these suggestions to the attention of all members in bulletin form or otherwise. Names of those making the suggestions will not be used.

The members who have not yet sent in their post cards are urged to do so at once. Those who have not advised the secretary whether they will attend next Thursday's meeting are requested to do so immediately so that preparations can be made. The place of meeting has not been selected definitely as the committee is not able to determine as yet the number who will attend. It is important for you to send word now. If you have misplaced your postcard telephone the secretary Auto 1781.

As soon as the place of meeting is decided announcement will be made in the paper. Those who do not want to attend the 6 o'clock dinner (50 cents) are invited to come at 7:30 o'clock when the evening's program will begin.

With the Board of Trade Bulletin was a post card addressed to Messrs. Licking Co., Cincinnati. Messrs. Brownfield, Tatham and Taverner in reference to the proposed Licking County Library. The card reads as follows:

Messrs. Brownfield Tatham and Taverner, Newark, Ohio:

Gentlemen: A free County Library with branches in all townships of Licking County would be of inestimable value to this community and would be of very great benefit to the generations to come. Its value cannot be measured in dollars. Such an institution can be established here by a levy of 10 cents on every $1000 of taxable property. If you will make this levy Newark city will not only pay the greater part of the cost but will also provide the site and the means to erect a suitable building. Your support of this measure will be appreciated by

Yours truly,

Signed .....

FORTY-FIVE CASES OF TYPHOID HAVE BEEN REPORTED

With rumors and reports passing from tongue to tongue regarding the typhoid fever epidemic in Newark, many citizens have come to believe that the city is in the grasp of a grim spectre, armed with the scythe of death, reaping a great harvest. The Advocate has gone to some trouble to investigate the epidemic and its relation to the city's water supply, and those in authority are not prepared to blame the city water for the prevalence of the disease.

Since Jan. 15, there have been reported 45 cases of typhoid fever. Of this number many have recovered, and the quarantine on the homes has been lifted. Probably the total number of cases recovered will reach 10 or 12, perhaps more.

Four cases were reported last week, two on Monday and two on Wednesday. One case was reported later in the week that had been bed-fast for seven weeks, the physician in the case failing to report the matter before last week.

Dr. Knauss stated this morning that it was his belief that the epidemic was abating, but that his warning to the people of the city to boil all drinking water, whether it comes from the city mains or private wells, was still standing, and that he was not ready to recall the notice.

He refused to state that the epidemic was due to any particular source. In fact, he was noncommittal, saying that all he had to say was that the subject had been said in a report to the director of service, and in his notice to boil the water.

While the health officer refused to be quoted in the matter, it was apparent that he did not care to say anything that might result in an altercation. From his conversation it was gathered that while a chemical analysis of the water, if made today, might show a high state of purity, a similar test made tomorrow or next week might show sediment or bacteria.

With conditions of this sort prevailing, the statement today that the water did not contain bacteria might be successfully controverted tomorrow, following another chemical analysis.

While many of the typhoid cases have been severe, but one death has occurred during the present epidemic. Others of the cases have recovered and the present cases are getting along nicely.

If there has been any danger in the city water in the past, this will be increased as the spring thaws and rains cause the North Fork to swell and the stream takes up the surface water, which contains filth, etc., accumulated during an unusually severe winter.

The usual winter weather sees a number of "warm spells," when much of the snow and filth are carried away. This winter the freeze-up has lasted for nearly two months and there has been a vast accumulation of filth, etc., which, owing to the depth of the frozen ground, must be carried off in the streams.

COMMUNICATED

Editor Advocate: If the health officer is right in warning the public in regard to the city water being impure, who is at fault in allowing the drinking fountains in the park to stand and their disease germs to unsuspecting school children and strangers who come within our gates.

Every soda fountain in the city uses city water. Is this not a condition of our public affairs that should be remedied speedily, or is it necessary to wait for a few more deaths by typhoid before the blame will be placed where it belongs?

DISEASE OF HONEY BEES

The United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the fact that American foul brood has been found in Licking county. The department has no means of knowing how long the disease has existed in the region, but desires to notify bee keepers of the trouble and to suggest that, if not already informed concerning the disease, they inform themselves at once. Very frequently colonies of bees are destroyed by disease and the loss is attributed by the bee keeper to some other cause. Farmers' Bulletin No. 442, The Treatment of Bee Diseases, gives a description of the brood diseases and methods of treatment. It will be sent free on request to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Attention is also called to the fact that the brood diseases do not at all injure honey for human consumption, so that there need be no fear on the part of purchasers of honey.

Woman Was Given Suspended Sentence.

Arrested while waiting at Fourth and Main streets Saturday night for her husband, a woman of East Newark faced Mayor Swartz this morning on a charge of being drunk. She denied vehemently that she was drunk and insisted that the officer who made the arrest jerked her around in a manner calculated to give the impression that she was intoxicated. The turnkey at the city prison thought she "might have been drinking" but she was not badly intoxicated when lodged at the bastille. She was allowed to go home after being given a suspended sentence.

Leroy and Oak Streets When Struck by Train.

Purne Annanias, aged 35 a member of Newark's foreign colony, was struck and instantly killed by a B. & O. train some time Friday evening while walking the tracks between Leroy and Oak streets. His dead body was found about 7 o'clock by B. & O. Track Walker Hillery, as he was passing along the right of way near Leroy street.

Immediately upon discovering the body, Hillery called Criss Bros. & Jones' ambulance and the body was removed to their morgue, where it was reviewed by Coroner W. E. Wiyalich and later prepared for burial. Coroner Wiyalich stated that his examination revealed the fact that the left leg was broken above the knee, the right knee was dislocated, both jaws were broken and a large scalp wound was inflicted on the right side of the head, while his left side was badly crushed.

The body was identified through a number of letters and papers found in his pockets. A large bottle carried in an inside pocket was found to be crushed into bits from the force of the impact.

Other foreigners who viewed the body at the undertaker's morgue state that he was employed at the American Bottle Company's plant, as a laborer, and that he leaves a wife and family in the old country. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

A True Friend

Would not give you a drug in your food.

But many persons, of their own accord, drink coffee or tea day after day—ignoring the fact that there is a drug, caffeine, in every cup.

True, you may be able to "stand it" for a time, but the drug is there, and sooner or later is pretty sure to show in some annoying ailment.

There can be no relief until the cause is removed.

Simply leaving off coffee and tea will work wonders, but it is much easier if you shift to well made

THE HERPICIDE GIRL IS THANKFUL

I am always grateful for real blessings, and I know of nothing that I need to be more thankful for than Newbro's Herpicide. Thousands of ladies not only in the United States, but all over the world feel the same way about it. To this wonderful scalp and hair remedy they owe their soft, long, beautiful hair.

Mary J. Terry, of Lovejoy, Ill., writes: "My hair came out until there was just a scanty cover for the scalp. I tried everything I ever heard of or read about until I finally used Herpicide. There is nothing like it. My head is now covered with new hair. I shall forever praise Herpicide."

Most hair troubles come from dandruff. Newbro's Herpicide removes dandruff by killing the germ which causes it. It also stimulates a flow of blood which nourishes the follicles. The scalp being healthy, the hair does not come out and the new hair is allowed to grow.

There are other preparations which they say are "just as good" as Herpicide. It is not advisable to try them. Instead of doing any good they may do positive harm.

No one is ever disappointed in Newbro's Herpicide. The results are always the same, always satisfactory as is indicated by the fact that Herpicide has been sold for years and has thousands of satisfied friends. It is the only genuine, original dandruff germ destroyer. There is nothing "just as good."

One dollar size bottles are sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

ADVOCATE ADDS FOUR NEW MACHINES TO ITS OFFICE EQUIPMENT

The Advocate has just added to its equipment four new machines—a new, modern Miehle press, a Miller saw-trimmer, a ruling machine and another Mergenthaler Linotype machine.

The additional Linotype gives the Advocate a battery of five—an unusual number for a printing office in a city of 30,000 people, but the additional machine better equips this newspaper for the publishing business.

ing the dispatches received from that source. The Advocate's news service is supplemented by a corps of county correspondents and correspondents in 40 Ohio cities. This newspaper is the only one in Licking county that is served by the Associated Press.

The Miller saw-trimmer is used in both the newspaper and job printing departments to great advantage, while the ruling machine is a modern piece of apparatus placed in the blank book manufacturing department of this office.

After investigating various makes of printing presses, the Advocate bought a new Miehle, which is now few days visit with their uncle, James Martin, of Columbus.

Mrs. Booth, formerly of this place now making her home in Newark, spent a portion of last week here with friends.

On the contrary it is a very serious affection because every person with Sore Throat is in danger of tonsillitis, Quinsy, or Diphtheria and other serious maladies. In fact these diseases are almost invariably preceded by Sore Throat.

The air we breathe, the food we eat, the liquids we drink all pass through the throat and if that is diseased, infection is quick and it is carried to every part of the system. declaration of his attitude on the presidential question had been unavailing. His laconic remark to a friend in Cleveland last Wednesday night, that "My hat is in the ring," will have many answers.

It was the first real indication that he had in mind an affirmative answer to the governor's letter.

Upon promise that the reply would be given out last night, a small army of newspaper men gathered at the colonel's office early in the evening. Secretary Frank Harper met the reporters punctually and gave out the correspondence without comment. He said he was in no position to comment, and in view of the author's absence in Boston where he will spend several days, it was impossible to get an elaboration of the statements made in the letter.

Colonel Roosevelt was at the home of Judge Robert Grant, a Harvard classmate, with whom he spent last night. News of his decision spread around the city like wildfire last night and created a great deal of excitement. Judge Grant's home was besieged by a crowd of persons anxious to see the colonel, who was quietly discussing literature within the walls of his study.

When he at last appeared at his interview, he seemed to be in a good mood. As he spoke he smiled and chuckled. Then he added with a chuckle:

"I'm having a quiet literary evening. I haven't talked politics with anyone."

Colonel Roosevelt was at the home of Judge Robert Grant, a Harvard classmate, with whom he spent last night. News of his decision spread around the city like wildfire last night and created a great deal of excitement.

When he at last appeared at his interview, he seemed to be in a good mood. As he spoke he smiled and chuckled. Then he added with a chuckle:

"I'm having a quiet literary evening. I haven't talked politics with anyone."

ferences are to be held at the home of Gratton Cushing, speaker of the Massachusetts house where Mr. Roosevelt went this afternoon. Among those he expects to see is Governor Bass of Virginia, a progressive Republican leader.

In Conference With President

Washington, Feb. 26.—"I will make my position perfectly clear in my speech in Chicago on March 5." This was the reply given by Secretary of War Shinn to all who inquired of his government attitude toward Roosevelt's announcement. The speech in question is to be made before the Chicago Taft club. Vice President Sherman and Senator Crane of Massachusetts both called at the White House today where they held a long conference with the president. What conclusion was arrived at the conference is not known. However it is believed that the crux of the presidential nomination campaign will center in Ohio, the president's own state.

It is known that Roosevelt will make strong bids for delegates from there and the president's friends are preparing to meet the activity. At Toledo on March 8, the president will make his first speech in answer to Roosevelt's speech before the constitutional convention in Cleveland.

Mr. Taft is considering an invitation to address the Youngstown Board of Trade and has also been invited to Massillon.

New York, Feb. 26.—Headquarters for the supporters of Theodore Roosevelt were opened today from where will be waged the war for the nomination. They are in charge of Oliver Carpenter, a lawyer, a former lieutenant of George B. Cortelyou. Copies of the Roosevelt speech before the Constitutional convention are being printed and will be circulated.

Toledo, Feb. 26.—Colonel Roosevelt's answer to the Republican governors is positively final, said Walter F. Brown, chairman of the Republican committee. "It puts the presidential nomination where it should be, up to the people. For New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and possibly Michigan and about all of the states west of the Mississippi will choose their presidential delegates by direct primary. I have no doubt what the Chicago convention will do. There will be Roosevelt, delegates from 18 of the 21 congressional delegates and I do not concede Taft delegates in the other three."

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Today's hogs: receipts 50,000; market dull. Light $5.90 @ 22-1-2; heavy $6.00 @ 27-1-2; pigs $4.80 @ 60.

Battle receipts 24,000; market steady. Prime hogs $4.80 @ 8.50; tockers and feeders $3.90 @ 25; cows and heifers $2.10 @ 25; calves $5.50 @ 7.25.

Sheep and lambs: receipts 25,000; market slow. Native sheep $3.30 @ 4.30; native lambs $4.40 @ 7.00.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Hot Water For Bruises.
It is well to know that an application of hot water will save much pain and all discolorations when one has received a bump or bruise. If possible hold the bruised part in water as hot as can be borne. If not, wring out of hot water a soft piece of cloth and apply this, changing to another hot application as fast as one cools.

They say that those that are closest know us best, and that may explain why the Colonel's brother-in-law is favoring Taft.

According to the New York reporters the ex-President said he was treated badly in Ohio.

In the Ohio State Department one-third more work is being done than was ever before accomplished in that office, and there has not been an increase in the office force to take care of the added duties. The receipts of the department for 1911 under Secretary of State Graves aggregated $585,877.30, the greatest for a single year in the history of the state. The previous year the revenue was $454,280.96, the increase under Mr. Graves being $131, 596.84, or more than $12,000 a month.

JUGGLING THE FIGURES

Here is a business secret: If you are running your concern at a big loss, but wish to make the figures show a big surplus, simply put off paying heavy bills until after the reports of the receipts and expenditures are made up for the year.

This is the system by which Postmaster General Hitchcock put the postoffice on a "paying basis," according to charges made by W. D. Brown, formerly a government auditor, whose expose of the situation is so obviously true Mr. Hitchcock has failed to reply.
Mr. Brown shows that the alleged balance of $219,118.12 announced at the close of the last fiscal year to the credit of the postoffice department in reality does not exist at all, but instead there is really a deficit of $7,000,000. This was a recent fact brought out by the Ashbrook Congressional investigating committee.

RELIEF FROM EXPRESS COMPANIES

A charge of 25 cents, instead of $1.32, for the delivery of a 11-pound package on rural free delivery routes, is in prospect, as the result of the action of Democratic members of the house committee on postoffices and postroads in incorporating in the appropriation bill provisions for a tentative parcels post system. The committee members also agreed upon a general domestic rate of 12 cents and a maximum package of 11 pounds.
This is the present international parcels post rate.

TAFT TARIFF BOARD TO GO

The Democrats have had suggested to them a way to kill off the infamous Taft tariff board. The plan is to pass through the House a bill for the creation of a bureau of tariff statistics that shall be responsible to the legislative branch of the government, instead of to the executive branch alone, and that shall investigate and report on facts at the request of the House, which has authority to initiate revenue measures. There will then be no necessity for an appropriation for the tariff board, permitting that body to die with this fiscal year.

Enemies of Governor Harmon assert he is too friendly to the Standard Oil company. During his administration, appointees of the Governor working under authority of tax laws secured by him raised the taxable value of the property of the Buckeye Pipe Line company (a subsidiary of the Standard Oil company) from $4,635,000 to $28-281,806, a very extraordinary method Governor Harmon pursued to show his friendship for the Standard Oil company by which its tax valuation was increased seven fold.

Mrs. E. L. Colby of Columbus is the guest of Mrs. W. H. Smith of East Main street.

The Dayton Daily News thinks Attorney General Hogan has rendered more opinions and taken part in more legal controversies since taking office than all his predecessors. Hogan is making a record for himself and the office, that's sure, and some of his predecessors weren't slow in rendering opinions, John M. Sheets and Wade Hampton Ellis for instance, many of whose official opinions were prepared for them in the office.

ROOSEVELT ONCE SENT TAFT TO OPPOSE I. & R.

(Coshocton Times.)
Theodore Roosevelt, judging from his speech before the Constitutional convention, is against the Initiative and Referendum but is afraid to say so. "I believe in the Initiative and Referendum," said Roosevelt in one sentence. Then later on he hedged as follows: "The power to invoke such direct action, both by the initiative and referendum, should be provided in such fashion as to prevent its being wantonly or too frequently used. I do not believe it should be the easy or ordinary way of taking action." Evidently Mr. Roosevelt believes in high percentages, but he was afraid to say anything about percentages. President Bigelow and other I. and R. shouters assert the advocacy of high percentages is just an indirect way of knifing such a measure.

It is strange how quickly certain men can be converted to apparently popular proposed governmental changes when they hear a presidential bee buzzing. It was but a few years ago that Mr. Roosevelt, while President, sent Mr. Taft, a member of his cabinet to Oklahoma to speak against the admission of that state into the Union, because of its radical constitution. The initiative and referendum was one of the clauses in that organic law that Roosevelt then opposed.

TOOTHACHE.

Ah, toothache is a fell disease that makes the victim's marrow freeze, the while his wallings, on the breeze, disturb his neighbors; while toothache rends his swollen jaws he has no use for moral laws, the uplift or the people's cause, or useful labors. He doesn't care a red ding-dong about the shining peaks of song, he doesn't wish to right a wrong, his brave lance breaking; though public wrath be growing warm, he doesn't heed the growing storm; he only howls for chloroform to stop that aching. The ship of state might go to hang against the rocks where sirens sang, he simply wouldn't care a dang, he'd let it founder; what though the nation's bulwarks break? He doesn't care a tinkers shake while his jawbones rolls an ache, a red hot grounder. E'en as I write there haunts my teeth a smoking pain, above, beneath, that fairly jolts my laurel wreath, my withers wringing;
and nothing else seems worth my while but using language out of style; I do not dance, I do not smile, I am not singing.

STRAW VOTE FOR PRESIDENT IS BEING TAKEN IN NEWARK

Whom will the Democrats and Republicans nominate for the Presidency this year?

People everywhere are now trying to answer the question, but conditions are so complex, the situation so unusual, that nobody is able to speak with authority.

Had Mr. Roosevelt remained in Africa or even kept quiet in the Outlooker's sanctum there is no doubt that President Taft would easily have vanquished his Wisconsin opponent. Senator LaFollette and the gentleman from Iowa, Mr. Cummins, but T. R. is now positively in the big game and that makes it different.

The southern delegates presumably for Taft through federal patronage can, with the support of New York and Pennsylvania nominate the present occupant of the White House, but will they do it? It is urged that even some of them see "handwriting" upon the wall and will turn to T. R.
to lead them in the hope of victory.
Upon the other hand Mr. Roosevelt, as cordially liked and disliked as any one in the United States, will have his troubles in the convention. Taft's friends are indignant at Roosevelt's change of front and the factional battle will continue until November.

Judging from recent editorial opinions expressed in every section Mr.
Roosevelt will get the nomination.
Today, however, Roosevelt announces his candidacy and that puts a different light on things. Taft by custom is entitled to a re-nomination—but will he get it?

In the Democratic race there are at least nine entries—Harmon and Wilson and Clark standing ahead of all others at this writing.

Governor Wilson of New Jersey and Governor Harmon of Ohio are undoubtedly in the lead among the first three but it is too early to venture a safe prediction. Mr. Wilson will get the nomination. He takes a two-thirds vote in the Baltimore convention to nominate the Democratic candidate and the man who may command a majority may not be able to land the required two-thirds of the delegates.

The Newark Advocate was the first newspaper in the United States to propose Governor Harmon for the presidency. This paper suggested Harmon the day after his first election as governor of Ohio and the splendid administration he has given certainly justifies the confidence of his friends in Ohio and throughout the nation in expressing the hope that Harmon would lead the Democratic forces this year.

ADVENTIST MINISTER PAYS RESPECTS TO PERSONAL LIBERTY ADVOCATES

In a most powerful sermon last Friday evening at the Adventist church, Elder E. K. Slade gave some little attention to the idea of personal liberty regardless of the liberty of the other man. He preached on the advertised subject, "American principles which should be embodied in our new Constitution" and in part said:

"If ye be willing and obedient you shall eat of the good of the land. Is-1:19. Willingness precedes obedience in all phases of acceptable Christian service. There can be no character development through enforced obedience. God permitted sin to enter the universe rather than enforce unwilling obedience upon his creatures. He could not be satisfied with obedience that was not entirely willing. Hence, if the Constitutional convention incorporates proposals to enforce religious dogmas or institutions upon the people of Ohio we will not be in harmony with the mind of God nor the will of his people. It would of necessity be enforced obedience for those not in harmony with the measure and they are the ones for whom the proposals are intended.

Men, all men, have, under the National Constitution certain inalienable rights among which are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. These rights may be equally enjoyed by all.
Any interference with the right of conscience be permitted. Religion, morality, and knowledge, however being essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the general assembly to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable enjoyment of its own mode of worship."

Proposal No. 56.
Mr. Pettit.
"All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience. No person shall be compelled to attend, erect, or support any place of worship against his consent, and no preference shall be given by law to any religious society; nor shall any interference with the right of conscience be permitted. Religion, morality, and knowledge, however being
essential to good government, it shall be the duty of the general assembly to pass suitable laws to protect every religious denomination in the peaceable
enjoyment of its own mode of worship."

The rejection of principles of this kind can only mean that one is unwilling to grant to others what he wants for himself. And this is bigotry, it is un-American.

THE REJECTION OF PRINCIPLES OF THIS KIND CAN ONLY MEAN THAT ONE IS UNWILLING TO GRANT TO OTHERS WHAT HE WANTS
FOR HIMSELF. AND THIS IS BIGOTRY, IT IS UN-AMERICAN.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food SpecialistSTIMULATING THE APPE-TITE

Loss of appetite is a symptom in nearly all disease, and so is loss of desire for activity in other directions. It is not customary to stimulate the desire for activity, muscular and mental, in sickness, and it is more than probable that the practice of stimulating the appetite of the sick by enticing foods or by giving highly concentrated or stimulating foods is an error, for the digestive organs and all the processes of nutrition need rest as well as the muscles and the nervous system; and hence the success of the rest cure. In most cases the body has stored in itself a reserve supply of food for emergencies, and as a rule it is best to feed lightly in sickness and in many cases to withdraw food altogether for longer or shorter periods, according to conditions.

CALL EXTENDED TO REV. HAZLETT
OF BELLAIRE, O.

A congregational meeting was held Sunday morning by the members of the First Presbyterian church to decide upon issuing a call for a pastor. Since the departure of Rev. Mr. Vernon, for his new field the first of the year the church has been without a minister.

During the interim the pulpit has been filled by many visiting clergymen and a week ago Sunday Rev. Calvin G. Hazlett of Bellaire, delivered a sermon. The congregation was so impressed with the capability of Mr. Hazlett that at Sunday's meeting a unanimous call was extended to him to accept the pastorate here. It is not known whether the offer will be accepted by Rev. Mr. Hazlett but the decision will probably be announced within the next two weeks. The Rev. Mr. Hazlett is pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Bellaire.

Removes Grease Quickly From Pots and Pans

Cleaning the pots and pans and kettles is usually a most disagreeable piece of work, but like everything else there is an easier way to do it, if one knows how. As soon as the food is removed, pour in water and dissolve in it Cold Dust in the proportion of one table-spoonful to a gallon of water. Leave to soak while washing the dishes, then pour off the water and fill with clean suds made in the same way. If particles of food still adhere to the inside of the utensils, use pottrags for removing them.

INDIAN DISPLAY IS ATTRACTING
MUCH ATTENTION

The display of Indian baskets and pictures which has been shown in the Mezzanine room in the Trust Building has attracted much attention and been greatly admired by the many who have had the opportunity of visiting there. The room is open today, but will be closed a day or Tuesday to permit of a transfer of the display to the fourth floor of the building where it will be on exhibition and the articles for sale under the direction and charge of the Federated clubs of Women of the city.

The exhibit of "Indian Studies and Nature Prints" is the work of Mrs. Grace Chandler Horn, and all are taken from real life, first photographed by Mrs. Horn and then reproduced in oil, platinum and etching. Many embrace scenes from spots made famous by Longfellow in his beautiful poem of Hiawatha. Most of the scenes are from Northern Michigan and the papers of that state are loud in their praises of the work of Mrs. Horn.

Those who fail to see this display are missing an opportunity of a life-time but the chance is still open and the lover of the beautiful in nature and in art should grasp it. Remember the display will be closed tomorrow to remove it to the fourth floor of the Trust Building, but it will be open again on Wednesday.

LATEST 'DAWG' SONG

Washington Colleagues Haze Speaker Clark With Some Original Verses.

Speaker Champ Clark was unmercifully hazed yesterday at Washington. All the statesmen wanted him to sing "They Gotta Quit Kickin' My Dawg Around," the battle song of the Joplin convention that declared for Clark first, last and all the time at Baltimore. They just baited him with that "Dawg."

"How does it go, Champ?" everybody cried. "Sing it for us. Well, if you won't do that, give us the tune."

The speaker had to flee to his private office. There he remained hidden while facetious congressmen sang new verses to the song so vigorous that the words filtered through the transom into Clark's room. No answering strains floated back.

One of the Missouri statesmen had another version of the "Dawg" song. According to him it goes: "Every time Clark come to town 'The boys start kickin' Joe Folk around."

Makes no difference if he is all down, They gotta quit kickin' Joe Folk around."

"That's the way some of the boys sing it back in old Missouri," said the man from the "Show me" state. "Just look at the way they kicked Joe around at that Joplin convention."

The quintessence of a one-sided flirtation is this business of greeting mistortune with a smile.

HEIGHTS AND DEPTHS DIVINE

Pastor Russell on the All-Permeating Love of God.

BIDS FAREWELL TO BOMBAY.

Preacher Sees Hopeful Signs That the Religious Sentiment of India Will Be Illumined With the True Light—Divine Power Will Be Exercised to Awaken the People to an Understanding of the Glory of God.

(PASTOR RUSSELL)

Bombay, Feb. 25.—The Committee of the International Bible Students Association for the investigation of Foreign Missions have spent three weeks in India and travelled over three thousand miles. The seven members divided the work amongst themselves at the various stopping points and will collaborate in the report. We report today's discourse in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium by Pastor Russell, the Chairman of the Committee, as follows:—

I had a great interest in your land and its people before coming to your shores, but my interest has been greatly increased by what I have witnessed during the past three weeks in India—not only in your largest cities, but also in your towns, villages and agricultural districts. As there are no other extremes in the world so great as between the caps of your Himalaya mountains and the wash of your coral strands, 29,000 feet below them, so likewise there can be found no greater contrast socially and financially than between your wealthy princes and your poverty stricken lower castes. Although such contrasts are deplorable we have no remedy to suggest, except the Divine one—the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom.

Sympathy Misapplied.
Meantime, if poverty be favorable to sainthood, there should be excellent material in abundance here. Indeed, one of the things which has impressed me is the religious sentiment of India. The religious fervor of the thousands who bathe in the Ganges, and the numerous temples and shrines in every city, remind me of Saint Paul's words respecting some of his day: "feeling after God, if haply they might find Him." The two thousand temples and shrines of the one city of Benares speak volumes for the religious sentiment of the people and, although I have remarked of your hundreds of millions of hopelessly poor, I have not overlooked the fact that some of your wealthy have shown that they are not without generous instincts. Many of your merchant princes have evidently given largely to the charitable institutions, notably in Bombay; and I would not overlook the fact that in one of your great cities large animal hospitals have been provided for decrepit chickens, donkeys, horses, etc. However we may consider such sympathy misapplied, in view of human need and suffering, we cannot overlook the fact that sympathy is there only waiting for the proper direction which Messiah's Kingdom will shortly give.

In your own grand Bombay I noted with astonishment the Towers of Silence, where the Parsee element of your population gives the flesh of its dead to feed the vultures. Alas! my soul cries out. Is not such heroism worthy of a better cause—would not these Parsees make wonderfully faithful Christians, if they but had the blessing of the true Light? How I rejoice in the Divine promise that the true Light of the world shall yet lighten every man that cometh into the world! (John 1, 9.) How glad I am that now I see the Divine provision for the hundreds of millions of India and of the whole world to come to a knowledge of the glory of God, under the uplifting of the Kingdom of Messiah! And how I rejoice to believe it is near, even at the doors—just behind a terrible time of trouble and anarchy, which India will not escape!

Heights and Depths Divine.
But I must not dwell too much on the dark side of India's picture; you know it too well already. I will allow the wonderful heights of the Himalayas from your sea shore to draw our attention to the Apostle's words respecting "the heights and depths, the lengths and breadths of the Love of God, which passeth all understanding." That is the text of my parting words to India. In the past our forefathers studied God's Word with the light of a tallow candle, or of a pine knot, or of a smoking lamp; now we may search the Scriptures in the clear, steady light of the electric lamp, which brings us almost noon day brightness.

Correspondingly, we find beauties in the Divine Word and plan which our forefathers of the day of the tallow dip could not discern. Once we believed with our forefathers that God's love was merely for the "elect," saintly few, and that the non-elect, in His displeasure, He had doomed to eternal suffering. Now we see the same blessings as ever for the "elect," but other blessings for the non-elect, the world—earthly blessings of restitution to human perfection and to an earthly Eden world wide.

Our forefathers saw the height of God's love for the holy angels and its condescension to the saintly of men, but they did not see its depths. They did not see that the Redemption accomplished by Jesus is ultimately to reach down to and embrace the very humblest and most degraded of human-kind. How the precious Scriptures which tell of Jesus as the Saviour of the world, as well as of the Church, escaped our notice, who can explain? But surely glad are we that now we can see clearly that the Redeemer is a Propitiation for our sins, the Church's sins, and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

This fuller appreciation of the lengths and breadths and heights and depths of love/Divine is coming to Christian people as a benediction from heaven, just at the time when many are higher-critically repudiating the Bible and its God as unworthy of belief. The true view of God's Word we have intimated, namely, that all the families of the earth are to be blessed by Messiah's Kingdom, and that the Church, in process of election for the past eighteen centuries, is to be sharer with her Lord in that Kingdom.

Is it any wonder that this glorious view of our Creator and His plan for human salvation is inspiring—sanctifying to the hearts of all who have the hearing ear to receive it! Is it not in full accord with the earliest statement of the Gospel, "Through thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed?" Is it not the claim of the Church and of the Bible that the saintly believers of the Gospel Age constitute the spiritual Seed of Abraham, the Bride of Messiah, "the Body of Christ, which is the Church?" And have we not also the assurance, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and heirs according to the promise?"—Galatians iii. 16, 29.

From the Horrible Pit.
Another view of the heights and depths of God's love is that which recognizes us as a race fallen from human perfection into the mire of sin whose quicksands are swallowing up mankind at the rate of 90,000 every day. The Divine Program shows two salvations for the groaning creation. The first of these is the most wonderful; it is now in progress, and we urge all who have the hearing ear to lay aside every weight and every besetting sin that they may attain this special salvation offered to the Church. By faith, through the medium of exceeding great and precious promises, God is now lifting the obedient "elect" from the original pit of sin and death, from the mental degradation in which we all were as Adam's race; and to some extent they are being lifted also physically from this degradation.

The transforming work begins with each believer in Jesus who presents himself a living sacrifice to walk in the Master's footsteps. Even though these may not generally be of the wealthy and educated and higher social classes, the power of the Holy Spirit operating through the Divine promises gradually beautifies not only the characters but to some extent the features of those who rejoice to take up their cross and follow the Savior.

However uncouth and rude or careless or savage they may have been before, the transforming influence of the Holy Spirit develops in them the fruits of the spirit—meekness, gentleness, patience, longsuffering, brotherly-kindness, love; and these things continuing in them and abounding more and more, and attesting their faithfulness unto death, make these neither barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of God and in the character-likeness of Jesus; and hence the Resurrection change will usher them into the everlasting Kingdom of their Saviour—to be sharers in His glory, honor and immortality—far above angels, principalities and powers and every name that is named. Do we not here see wonderful depths from which these are rescued and wonderful heights to which they are yet to be lifted by Divine grace and its arrangements for their behalf! Surely all mankind who see this glorious arrangement of our God can glorify Him on this account.

God's Original Design to Be Carried Out.

For the world a somewhat similar and yet very different blessing is outlined in the Divine Plan of the Ages. Our poor race in some quarters of the world, fallen from the image of God almost to the level of the brute, sadly needs the uplifting, restricting, restitutionary influences which Messiah's glorious Kingdom will bring to them. To what heights will man be raised? Oh, not so high as the Church, the elect Bride of the Lamb—not so high as cherubim or even as angels, but very high, nevertheless—back to all that was lost in Eden.

How our hearts glow with gratitude toward God as we perceive that His original design for His human creatures is yet to be carried out to the letter! "His Word that is gone forth out of His mouth shall not return unto Him void, but it shall prosper in the thing whereunto He sent it." (Isaiah iv. 11.) He said, "Let us make man in Our Image;" and when he was made the Divine judgment expressed was that he was "very good," only "a little lower than the angels." (Hebrews ii. 7.) Moreover, he was crowned with glory and with honor in a sense that the angels were not crowned, for man was made the king, the ruler, the Divine representative of all the lower creatures of the earth. As we read, "Thou didst set him over the works of Thy hands . . . all sheep and oxen, yea, and the beast of the field, the fowl of the air and the fish of the sea, and whatsoever passeth through the paths of the seas."—Psalm viii, 6-8.

This Godlikeness in the flesh and this Divine authority associated with it has been marred and much of it has been lost. The six thousand years of the reign of sin and death have not changed the Divine intention. On the contrary, the human family has been multiplying; it has been given valuable lessons on the exceeding sinfulness of sin; it has learned to know evil first. Next it must be brought to a knowledge of good and to an appreciation of Divine mercy. This will come to mankind during the thousand years of Messiah's reign, in which not only the living will be blessed with knowledge and with recovery from the power of death, but gradually all that have gone down to the tomb shall come forth, that they may be raised up, up again to the perfection of life, and fully live again at the end of the thousand years.—Revelation xx, 6.

In the Ages to Come.
Nor will the lengths and the breadths of Divine love toward the elect Church, the Bride of Christ, be fully exhibited to angels and to men, even during the glorious period of Messiah's reign. Saint Paul explicitly declares, "that in the Ages to come He might shew the exceeding riches of His grace in His kindness toward us through Christ Jesus." Is it asked what opportunity there will be for further favors to be bestowed upon the Church at the conclusion of the Millennial reign? We answer that as the Scriptures declare that God formed the earth not in vain but made it to be inhabited, and will make it glorious as His footstool in due time, so we may reason with respect to the other planets of our solar system. Gradually through coming Ages Divine power will be exercised in bringing into being millions of intelligent creatures on every planet of our system.

And still more than this, if our astronomical concepts are correct, all the fixed stars are suns, and around each sun are planets. Are there, then, a thousand blazing suns? Yes, more. Are there ten thousand? Yes, more. Are there ten times ten thousand? Yes, more! Are there ten times a hundred thousand, a million? Yes, more! Are there ten times ten millions, a hundred millions? Yes, and more! And if we allow an average of ten planets to each sun this would make more than a thousand million planets, all made not in vain, but eventually to be inhabited. And astronomers assure us that we have every reason to believe that if we could stand upon the very furthestmost of our knowledge—we would see as many millions more beyond.

Alas! our poor minds are bewildered with such immensity, with such manifestations of the lengths and breadths of Divine Power and Wisdom, even as we have already been bewildered in our attempt to appreciate the lengths and breadths and heights and depths of Divine Love! Will there not indeed, then, be quite a sufficiency of the Divine Program to be outworked through Christ and the Church to justify the Apostle's statement that in the Ages to come God will manifest the exceeding riches of His grace in His loving kindness toward us in Christ Jesus?

India's Share in God's Grace.
India's hundreds of millions have not gone to a hell of hopeless despair and endless torture! Thank God, no! They have gone to the same hell to which Jesus went, the same to which the Apostles and Prophets went, the same to which all mankind, both good and bad go—the Bible hell, the tomb, the state of death—sheol, in the Old Testament Hebrew, and hades, in the New Testament Greek. They are all asleep, unconscious, until the morning of the resurrection. Thus "Abraham slept with his fathers," as did Kings David and Solomon, and all, both good and bad. Thus Jesus' friend, Lazarus, fell asleep and was awakened by the Saviour on the fourth day, called forth from the tomb. Thus also Saint Stephen, stoned to death, fell asleep; and Saint Paul speaks of mankind in the tomb as sleeping in Jesus, and of the Church, as being asleep in Christ.

In the glorious morning of the New Dispensation, inaugurated by Messiah's Kingdom, the awakening of mankind will gradually proceed. Our Saviour informs us that His Church, the elect Bride, will constitute the First Resurrection, and that subsequently all that sleep in the dust of the earth shall come forth, "every man in his own order." In his own rank. Eventually all shall be brought forth and thus Sheol will be no more, Hades shall be destroyed as the Scriptures say, "Oh, Sheol, I will be thy destruction!" (Hosea xiii. 14.) Our Lord declares that He has the keys of Hades—the rightful authority to open the tomb and ultimately release all the prisoners of sin and death and to grant them restitution privileges under His Messianic Kingdom, which first of all will bind Satan and overthrow his Kingdom of darkness and sin, ignorance and superstition.

As for those who will ultimately reject Divine favor, the message is that they shall die the Second Death. From it there will be no redemption, no resurrection, no recovery. As Saint Peter declares, they shall perish like natural brute beasts.

It is time that we should begin to magnify God's Love, the lengths and breadths and heights and depths of which are beyond all human appreciation. As we do this our hearts are enlarged; our lives are ennobled; the grace of God is shed abroad in our hearts; the light of Divine Truth shines out from our words and conduct more and more. Thus we become copies of God's dear Son, little by little, in the spirit of our minds; and thus we are fitted and prepared for a share with Him in His glorious Kingdom which shall bring in Restitution—uplift from sin and death for Adam and his race.—Acts iii, 19-21.

HARD ROAD FOR AMENDMENTS

A Difficult Job to Change the Constitution.

INCOME TAX STILL HELD UP.

No Agreement as to Amendment For Direct Election of Senators—Proposal to Shift Date of Inauguration—Some of the Old Time Newspaper Men. One Man Who Saw Washington.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—When anything seems to be the matter with the country the remedy is sought in legislation, and when it is found impossible to legislate because that "musty old constitution" stands in the way there is at once a proposition to amend the constitution.

And yet it is not easy to make such amendments. It has taken years of persistent effort to get a resolution through congress to amend the constitution providing for the direct election of senators, and while such a resolution has passed both houses it has been held up a long time awaiting the settlement of differences between the senate and house.

The amendment for an income tax has been waiting for a sufficient number of states to make it operative.

Not Dismayed.
The fact that the constitution has not been amended since 1868 and the great difficulties in the way have not dismayed the advocates of constitutional changes. The women suffragists come here regularly and ask for an amendment. The advocates of a change of a date for the inauguration of the president make the attempt every year. Those who want a change authorizing congress to legislate for marriage and divorce present their claims every session. But there is no possibility of any of these changes being made.

What Will Happen to Ollie.
Congressman Lobeck of Nebraska has a faculty for drawing and recently exhibited a very good likeness of Senator Elect Ollie James that he had sketched with a pen as he sat on the floor of the house.

"I wanted a picture of what hair he has left before he goes into the senate," explained Mr. Lobeck. "When he gets over there he'll be like the rest of them—all forehead."

Veterans of Famous "Row."
The veterans of the house and senate press galleries have taken steps to form an association among the survivors of the men who in old "newspaper row" wrote the current history of the civil war and the events immediately following it. "Newspaper row" was on the east side of Fourteenth street between Pennsylvania avenue and F street.

Many of the old buildings that gave it the name have since been torn down to make room for the building occupied by the department of commerce and labor and the extension of the Ebbitt House, but a few of the ancient structures still stand, though the old name has become nothing but a memory. Among the survivors of the corps of correspondents housed in "newspaper row" during the civil war are White-law Reid, now ambassador to the court of St. James; George Alfred Townsend, who wrote for the Philadelphia Press in 1863; Elijah W. Halford of the Indianapolis Journal in '64; Frank A. Richardson, Baltimore Sun, '65; John R. Young, New York Tribune, '66; John B. McCarthy, Washington Chronicle, '67, and many others of a later day.

Three Chances to Dodge.
There are four ways of voting in the house—first, viva voce, when the yeas and nays are uttered in chorus; second, by rising vote, when members stand and are counted; third, vote by tellers, when the members form a procession and march by the clerks, who count them as they pass, and, fourth, by roll call, when each must answer yea or nay as his name is called and record his vote.

The other day the house had just reached the point of voting on a proposition that had received a warm discussion. Congressman Victor Murdock was headed toward the chamber, knowing a vote was coming, when he met a colleague who has occasionally shown a dislike for roll calls. "Victor," hailed him thus:

"Come on back. You have three chances to dodge before you have to go on record."

Last to See Washington.
With the death of the only man living who had looked upon the face of George Washington, the last human link connecting us with the Father of His Country was snapped. This unique privilege was accorded to John Lane, well known as a business man of Washington, who died not long ago at the age of eighty-eight years.

When a small boy, Mr. Lane ran away from school to accompany a committee of congressmen and other public men appointed to witness the removal of the body of our first president from the old tomb at Mount Vernon to the new one. Some one was kind enough to lift the boy up so that he might look upon the features in the casket, revealed through the glass top of the exposed coffin. It made a firm impression on the mind of the youthful Lane, which he carried with him to the day of his death.

EXHIBITS FROM MANY CLIMES

Great Missionary Exposition Is Soon to Open at Cincinnati.

WORLD IN CINCINNATI ITS TITLE

Native Life and Mission Work All Over the Earth Will Be Shown in Beautiful Tableaux During the Exhibition, Which Will Be Held in Music Hall From March 9 to April 6—"World in Cincinnati" an Educational as Well as Novel and Original Exposition.

"The World in Cincinnati" will be the second Missionary exposition on a world-wide scale to be held in the United States. From March 9th to April 6th, 1912, it will occupy the entire Music hall group of buildings in Cincinnati.

Education and inspiration are the objects of the exposition. It has been organized and is under the management of committees of Cincinnati men of the highest standing and reputation, who have provided a guarantee fund of more than $50,000 to finance the exposition. It is hoped that, the admission fee, which the visitor will be asked to pay, will enable all expenses to be met, and any money advanced by the guarantors to be repaid. Should a profit remain after this has been done, it will be turned over to the Missionary Education Movement for the extension of missionary education. The great missionary boards and societies are supporting the exposition through the Missionary Education Movement.

The exposition will demonstrate to the eye, by providing beautiful, artistic things to see, the scenery of all lands where the work of Christian missions is being carried on, the life of the people of these lands, their native religions and their needs from both a humanitarian and religious point of view.

Life-like scenery will surround each scene and section, enclosing groups of buildings copied from the characteristic town or village structure of each land. The first sensation of visitors will be the recognition that before their eyes is a feast of color and a spectacle such as rarely meets the gaze of the untraveled American. In the north hall of the Music hall group of buildings, to be called the "Hall of Foreign Lands," will be located the sections devoted to foreign nations. As the visitor enters before him will be a Japanese scene of peculiar beauty. From the beautiful temple garden of Japan you can step into a walled Chinese city and then walk through a Korean village street. Only a little imagination is needed to make you feel you are traveling in the Orient. The Japanese scene will be dominated by a Buddhist temple with the Torii arch before it. There will be little shops and rooms from Japanese houses.

The China scene will have its tall Central Pagoda, its Temple shrines and its native homes. In Korea there will be a farmhouse and other buildings, with a peculiar wayside shrine and a devil post. Then there will be an India village, made up of a Kali Temple and a Bengali Zenana, a bazaar of shops, the Towers of Silence and a Monkey Shrine. An African village will have its huts, native blacksmith shop, schoolhouse and granary. In the section devoted to Mohammedan lands, which visitors may enter through the Damascus gate, there will be a rich man's house, a Bethany home, a Turkish Khan and a Bedouin tent. Houses which you would see if you visited Arabia and

LIFE OF INHABITANTS OF FAR AWAY LANDS

Splendid Feature of "World in Cincinnati" Exhibit.

Not only will the visitor to "The World in Cincinnati," which will be open in Music Hall, Cincinnati, March 9 to April 6, see the dwellings, public buildings and industrial institutions of the countries of all parts of the world, but he will see displayed by tableaux, playlets and motion pictures, interesting scenes touching the very life of the inhabitants of the faraway lands.

One of the most interesting scenes promises to be the presentation in full of the Brahmin marriage rites, including the bargaining for the bride, the presentation of the girl-bride, the coming of the priests, the betrothal and, lastly, the child widow.

Another demonstration which represents non-Christian life, directly at home, will be an American Indian scene. This scene, consisting of four parts, and shown by 25 people, representing the modern Hiawatha, is directly typical of the manners and customs of the present generation of the old-time foe of the paleface.

"New Lamps for Old Ones," is the title of a representation of present Turkish life, the main feature here being a complete portrayal of the condition and status of women in Turkey today.

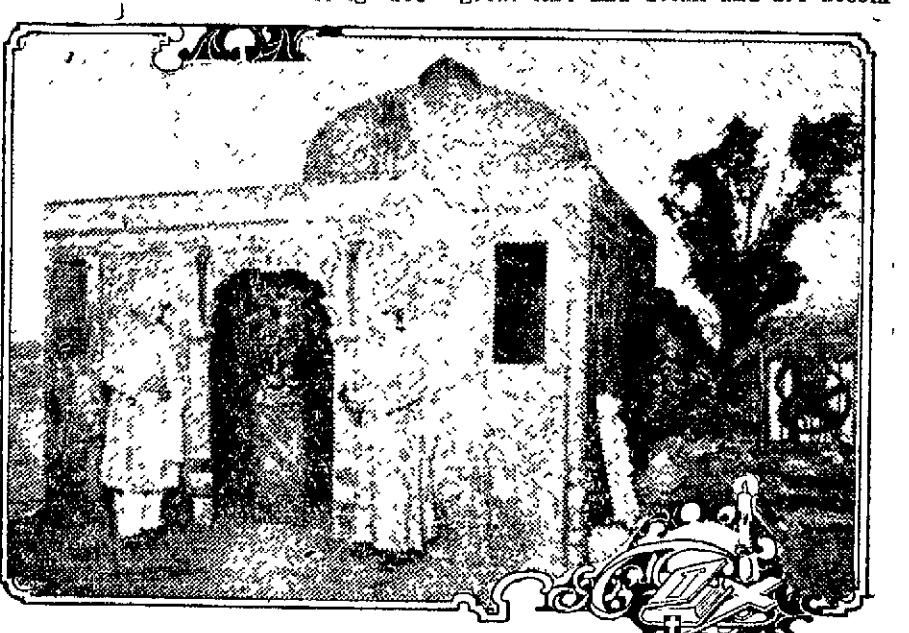

Of particular interest for the young folks will be the "Mystery Play," entitled "The Cross Goes Westward," depicting the progress of Christianity from its inception in Asia Minor to its present enlargement. This play is remarkable for its impressiveness and grandeur.

Among the other delightful and interesting tableaux presented will be the wedding scenes in China and Japan. These plays take from 30 to 45 minutes and are presented with great care and detail and are accompanied by suitable and elaborate scenery. They will present to the on-looker things which few of those who actually make journeys to foreign lands have the privilege of witnessing.

VISITORS WILL BE WELL FED
There will be a well equipped restaurant at "The World in Cincinnati," under the direction and management of those who have had experience in providing for large numbers of people. It will probably be located at one end of the "Hall of Home Land." Visitors from out of town will find it to their advantage especially to remember that they may obtain their luncheon or dinner at a first-class restaurant, paying moderate prices, without leaving the exposition. "The World in Cincinnati" will be held at Music Hall, March 9 to April 6, 1912, inclusive.

VOX-POPULI VOX-DEAE

SERGEANT CORNWALLIS is a sea soldier. Further, he dances nicely.

Mrs. Andromache Reilly flung her strip of denim over her shoulder and held her broom suspended as she considered her daughter. Polyxena lacked pompadour and neat high collar, nor did she wear her best high-heeled shoes upon the roof at sunrise. But her hair was a tawny knot, rust-brown; her cheeks and lips were glowing, her eyes long-lashed and wide and Irish gray. Youth, health and charm shone in her, and an indescribable alertness. The blood of Syracusan fisherfolk carries the glow of all the islands in its heritage; and in moments of reflection Mrs. Reilly vaguely blessed heaven for a daughter who was not pale.

America, to be sure, was a very fine place, though queer; and Polyxena was good, and clever at helping manage the boarders, and as accomplished in spelling over again this year, not to any office, so now he has to begin paying dues. Also he ceases to be Secretary of the P. O. S. A.; and he had expected that to go on forever paying him ten dollars a year. Thus he has sixteen lodges to belong to in all, and now the office-holding is not enough to pay his way! He is sorrowful this week, poor Andrew. Defeat, truly. He was on the point of joining the Macqueens and a Vincent de Paul. Behold the impossible!

"Pa's the hardest-worked old skeeicks in Newark, for a man that don't do nothing," pronounced Polyxena, succinctly. "And yet I dunno's I blame you 'n me for supportin' him, he's so nice and ornamental and speechifying. A person can't help admire him. Cornwallis has him down to the recruiting office half his time, so's to draw folks in. Well, I'll see those newspaper fellas of mine to-day or to-morrow and tell them to steer some more new boarders out our way. We can jam in a few more."

The Reilly breakfast at seven-thirty was a hurried meal, where the flies buzzed and the boarders ate in silence.

"Going to be a roaster of a day," said the Sergeant of Marines. "I s'pose they'll order me to Cuba or Guam or Key West just about the time it gets nice and cool here."

"Cheer up!" said Miss Reilly, briefly. "You not being a stock broker, I don't see what call you have to mourn. Those fellas down at the office last week, now—"

"If I had heaps of money you'd marry me in a minute."

"Don't let that worry you, duck. I'm not even thinkin' of rings 'n' Walt-thon-Polly for six months yet; I've got till I'm nineteen."

"I wish," said the sergeant, biting wistfully on a toothpick, and glancing at his companion sidewise, "the Government would up and buy those three cash battle-ships that the newspapers talk about. If our people don't somebody else will. Venezuela'll never need 'em now, and the yards will naturally want 'em out of the way. The bigger navy there is to bob 'round under the Stars and Stripes, the better chance there is for luck to strike the marines for a raise."

"If you're going to have the blues—"

"You won't throw me over at the pinch, will you, Polly? You really will marry me? You said you would. I wouldn't wonder if my examination number put me pretty well in line for the wardrobe already. How'd you like to be Mrs. Lieutenant, say? Merit-from-the-ranks puts you even with any snobs in the service, whether they like it or not."

They two came out of the dining room into the obscurity of the hall. Methodically, the man in uniform opened the street door to give his companion light enough on the mirror for the adjustment of her hat. With the change from dusk to sunlight they were startled to see a man on the stairs looking down at them. He was pale, dark-haired, tall and spare almost to emaciation. His expression at this moment baffled the sergeant.

"Coming down, Eddie?" chirped Polyxena Reilly, spiking a hatpin home and snuffing a puff or two. "You ain't too busy to walk down as far as Broad Street with us, are you?"

"Thanks," said the pale youth. "I promised Prince I'd write a six-verse song by two o'clock. It's my maiden effort and I think it'll be hard work."

The pale young man proceeded upward, dragging his feet wearily. Polyxena joined her escort on the sidewalk.

Upon arriving in her corner of the wide, shady hotel lobby, Miss Reilly uncovered her typewriter, adjusted snowy paper cuffs over her sleeves, laid tablet and pencil by ready for dictation, and turned to the morning papers. She was an inveterate newspaper reader; in fact, few items in the crowded pages of a New York daily lacked some sort of correlation with other news of yesterday, last week, last year, which she had stored away in memory.

As usual, business dwindled toward noon, and Polyxena had time for another newspaper. Both her dailies, she observed, had little information and much conjecture about the three ownerless battleships lying in the Clyde. A congressman from California had introduced a bill appropriating fifteen million dollars of the current deficit to purchase them for the United States. The Kaiser intended to buy them for his personal account at cut rates. Nobody knew why the British Admiralty hadn't bought them, unless the Japanese Alliance pulled a secret string.

While she was reading the last of these dispatches, Mr. Thomas Applewhite came and stood behind her typewriter, looking down at her quizzically as he fanned himself with his straw hat.

"Halloo," Miss Reilly greeted him. She flipped the Newark daily scornfully with a neat finger. "You've fell down on your Persohals, Tommy, something pitiful. Is it the heat? You'd better get friends with a telephone queen again like 'old times, so's you will have some facts."

"Not guilty as charged, my child. I'm spending my whole time on the Railway murder mystery. You'd recognize my flowery style if you had a gleam of literary instinct. But I know you haven't. Got any pen pals of fact for me to throw before the Associated Press to-day?"

"Only the mayor won't lead the Clan-na-Gael parade on Labor Day. Pa told me."

"Um—m-m. It'll be looking into, anyway; I'm reduced to the endless chain of prayer post cards for to-day's dispatch. Town's flooded with 'em; have you seen the thing? Fine idea, that, about referring you to the directory. Gives it a practical spin." He took a closely written postcard from his pocket and handed it to the girl.

You are solemnly requested to repeat this prayer for our city three times a day for nine days; and to send five copies unsigned to five persons whose names appear in letter M of the Newark Directory.

Bless, O Lord, the sick, the helpless, and the aged in our midst. Save them from pain, from neglect, from hunger, and loneliness, from fever and pestilence, and from the despair of their own hearts. For Thy Son's sake. Amen.

After repeating this upon the ninth day, seal your petition by a gift of money, ten cents upward, to some hospital or public charity of Newark. You may then expect some great good to yourself.

"I s'pose they sent 'em out different letters in the first place?"

The reporter nodded.

"Well, I bet they get their money."

Four weeks or so thereafter, Mr. Applewhite came into the Vernon House lobby with a clipping which he laid before the stenographer. Polyxena read it, nodding gravely.

"From Indianapolis," she said.

"Yes. Great popular enthusiasm. Post card chain reveals the nation mad for the Spot Cash Battleships Purchase! In fact, I've even come in on it myself, just to follow the fashion. Sent twenty cents in stamps to the Navy Department this morning. Great waste of postage, considering that I'm perfectly sure they've no legal right to accept subscriptions from the public."

"Haven't they?" Miss Reilly looked annoyed. "I sent a bunch of cards out myself last week; they ask you not to break the chain, of course, so I wasted some spoolies on postals at the substitution. What'll be done about the twenty cents, then?"

"That remains to be seen. I guess we'll read the Attorney General's opinion in the Washington dispatches presently. I signed my name and address, just for experiment; I may get a paragraph out of it. See here, you type my five cards for the endless chain, will you? They're addressed to fellows who know my handwriting pretty well, and my patriotism bids me remain anonymous."

"I can as well as not," nodded the typist. "You going to make a few notices out of it?"

"The truly thrifty man wastes nothing. Of course. It's excellent news. I shall say the General Post Office and the Navy Department are overrun with Battleship Purchase correspondence. Then if they send my ten two-cent stamps back to me, I shall make a dollar out of that, too. I shall say the Post Office and Navy Departments are doubly overworked returning the funds to the nation."

Late autumn and winter drew along, and the changing seasonal chrysalis of womenfolk lengthened and tightened and narrowed and pinched, pinched more extravagantly than at any time these ninety years past. The feminine world grew hats, and from head to foot arrayed itself in greens, grays, smoke, puce, calawba. But Miss Polyxena Reilly wore small headgear and white shirtwaists and a plicated black voile skirt. She had seemingly abandoned up-to-date-

"Look here," spoke Mr. Applewhite, one Monday afternoon in January. "I want to know something. Is—is it common sense? Abnormal common sense?"

Or—now don't fly up at me—is Papa Reilly costing you a lot more than usual for his lodges? Because even a man can see you still wear—clothes. You—er—haven't gone in for this res augustae business. All the other women are got up in short-pattern remnants of airy goods. While you—you don't look chilly, my dear child; I'm almost worried about this attack of hygienic raiment. If the boarding house business is going wrong, may I offer a temporary loan?"

But at this delicate suggestion Miss Polyxena Reilly leaned back and laughed so heartily that the young man's concern changed to the mere perplexing sense that somebody was playing a deep game.

"I'll tell you if you won't print it," the girl said. "Much obliged, I'm sure, but it's nothing serious. I haven't bought a single article that's fashionable this winter. I know. Business seems good right along. I've had plenty of cash, but I've spent it. On the Post-Card Battleships! Buyin' cards, I mean. I'm—I'm the whole thing, the whole great national 'what-d'you-call-'em. I thought our folks might as well have those there three ships as any other country, so I set her going myself."

Edward Epaphroditus Ransom was hurrying down the nearest aisle of a five-cent theatre, the nickel buttons on his uniform gleaming jerkily, his eyes wide under some emotion, his lean, long shoulders stiffly set.

"Glad to see you," he said. "Mr. Applewhite, here's your tickets. It's a full house—that is to say, I don't know whether it is or not. I'm rattled. I wish you'd take care of my money till the performance is over, you and Polly; I'm not used to it, and I feel as if I'd have my pockets picked. Keep it, will you?" He handed out some crumpled bills with yellow backs. "Scureman—the Scureman—was over this afternoon: From New York. To—to make a contract for my—songs. He's had 'Truthful Jane' copyrighted. He's—oh, he—'d have got down to the house in time to see you, only I was kept up there dickerin' with the old man till past supper time! I'm a regular baby over it; I've been out of luck so long!"

Applewhite dropped his open paper to shake the usher's hand. Polyxena Reilly seized the other wrist, money and all.

"Why, it's a hundred dollars!" she cried. "Oh, Eddie, Eddie, I'm so glad! Did you take a contract with Scureman? A signed contract?"

"Of course. I get a royalty, and the new one can't be sung except in his circuit for six months. Reusch has the same terms. Oh, I tell you, that classical waltz tune sounds great with the whole orchestra. But there's something else. See this."

He held out a fat, white envelope. "Official Business, Newark Post Office. It's that letter carrier job. After I've waited a year and a half for it!"

"Good for Civil Service! You'll take it, of course?"

"I'm not sure," replied the usher. He unbuttoned his showy tunic at the top to extract another envelope from his armpit; and with the motion revealed his tattered gingham shirt. "This looks better to me. Eleven hundred a year. Though I suppose living is pretty high in Washington. General Post Office: With temporary assignment to Navy Department, Bureau of—umm—m—Appointment permanent—next on lists by competitive examination. That's three times I've been struck by lightning to-night!"

"When do these jobs begin?" Miss Reilly inquired.

"Both of 'em right away. It's up to you to choose, dear, Polly, will you have one of 'em—one of these jobs, and me? It's queer to ask you in a rush this way, but I have to do it. Can you? Newark or Washington, just as you say. That is, I hope you'll say. Think it over and see if you can put up with me, will you, girl?"

"Oh, you wouldn't be so bad to get along with."

smiled the lady. "I've often thought you might, ask me, Eddie, too."

"Then which is it? Newark is a lower salary. But, of course, that might come to the same thing as Washington, counting board. So—"

"We won't board," Polyxena pronounced, with all her usual decision.

Miss Reilly's escort here recovered from his stupefaction sufficiently to take part in the conversation.

"Do I understand, usher, that you are proposing for the heart and hand of this young lady right under my nose?"

"First offense," grinned Eddie, going faintly brick-red. "Yes, I did it."

"First? That's not to your credit. You botch it awfully. You're a libel on American woolings."

"Oh, art for art's sake can go dry up! She took me! You heard her?"

"I heard her. But that's neither here nor there. You appear to be one of these trustful people. What about the boss plumber, and me, and the freight conductor on the Red C, and Sergeant Cornwallis, and some others? You are only one of an arithmetical series, usher. Don't take it too hard; smile and pass on."

"All you boys were just my re-re—what's the thingumies generals keeps to call on when the main army gets it in the neck?"

"Reserves?"

"—my reserves. Not a one of you was the real thing, and I told you so lots of times. You can't say I didn't. But Eddie was it. And the reserves is excused from here on."

"You see how I stand with the judge," Ransom commented. "There go the fiddles now; you'd better get your seats before the curtain."

"Can the—ah—reserves—sit out the performance with Miss Reilly? Or is it up to me to clear out?"

"Oh, come along," said Polly, starting down the aisle. "Eddie's busy quite a while yet. And I want to make sure you write down the best verses of Eddie's new piece to print in your paper, and advertise the song. I know it by heart. You might say

"If I Had Heaps of Money You'd Marry Me in a Minute," said the Sergeant.

Scureman's bought it, too, if you want to, and what a promising young author Mr. Ransom is getting to be—cause he'll have plenty of time in Washington to write more."

"My dear child! I begin to fear you wheedle press notices out of me at times for your own private schemes and devilments. Have I been useful, Polly?"

"Why shouldn't you be? The girl's wide Irish eyes met his, gray and innocent and merry. "The other newspaper fellas have, too. And it was good enough news, all this post-card graft. Besides, I've often done you boys a favor, haven't I?"

"So you want this puff to-morrow for Ransom? Oh, Wire Puller! Press Agent! Where is this downward road of mine to end?"

"I'll end about Wednesday, I should expect, if Ed telegraphs his answer to-night. There won't be any firist, nor caterer, nor troosoe to wait for. It won't take me long to pack up, and I've spent my bottom dollar already, so I won't be tempted to buy any glad clothes to be married in. You can come to the wedding, though. I'll telephone you what time. You see, things'll be pretty hurried; I won't risk Eddie's choosing a flat without me there, you can bet on that! Men never know about cupboards."

Standing erect in his place, Thomas Applewhite glared down at her.

"For a thousand-dollar clerkship!" he ejaculated. "Three $5,000,000 ships—President, Congress, Cabinet—nation gone wild—all the papers fooled—all the knowing ones prophesying and pulling their wires and yelling like tom cats on a fence! And all the while, a kid of a girl, with a Greco-Roman mother and a Fraternat Irish pa and a typewriter, invests the price of her new suit and hat and calls it 'good business.' Oh, woman, woman! Just an ordinary love affair at the bottom of the whole raging stew! Oh, oh! you impudent rectangular parallelopipedon, you Polly!" He stopped, groping for his hat.

"I'm no such thing!" Miss Reilly whispered hotly in the darkness. "You know very good I never held with trances an' spirits an' absent treatments! You needn't go miscalling me just because you're grouchy and jealous. I was born an' raised as good a Cath'lic as most folks; an' you know it. You can take your heathen names somewhere else, that's all. Eddie'll see me home. Good night to you!"

"Not Guilty as Charged, My Child."

English as she was ungrammatical in chattering Syracusan Greek.

"You was 'up-to-dett' always," she conceded, in answer to her daughter's remark. "By so reason you loves all young mens for being same 'up-to-dett' as you. All right, yes, yes! But you gotta marry to one pretta soon after, or you will lose your Onkel Axel's six hundred dollars."

"It's only September first to-day, and I ain't nineteen till the eighth of March. A funny old Dutch idea, too. I don't see any more'n I did two years ago why he thought I'd ought to get married by nineteen years. However, 'course I will."

"He was only your pa's first woman's brother. No people of yourn was he. You could knock pe down with feathers, I was so surprised for him to come such visit to your pa, that one while. But he was short of folks. Also growing a 'old one fast. Was all right, anyhow; we give him good time. One boarder talked his German, too."

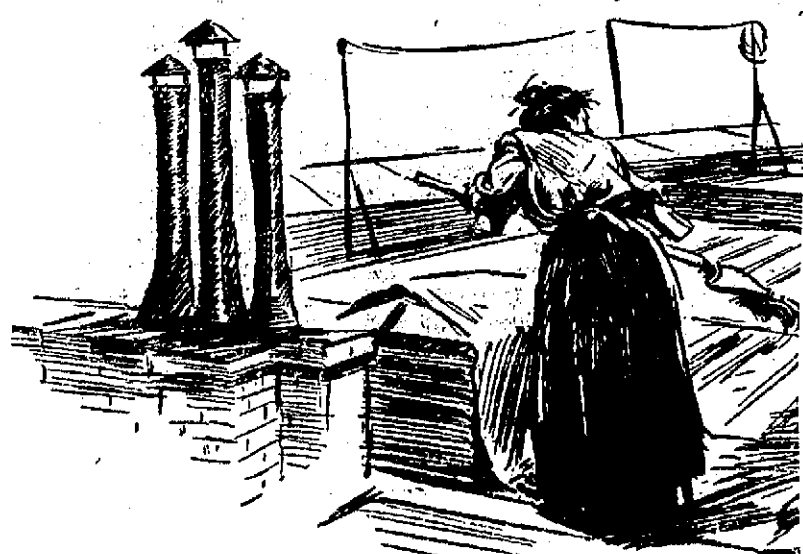

"Uncle Axel Pflichter wasn't no hand at English, sure; and pa's lodges is the only things you can get pa to raise a hand for, so he wasn't no compny for old Axel. But it was him took me off the cigarettes and jollied the German telephone man into givin' me a switchboard. I'm much obliged to him for that, if he hadn't left me a red cent."

Day was brightening perceptibly; a whistle blew somewhere in the city. Mrs. Reilly looked over the timed and grveled roofs, the chimney pots and wooden tenements, the junk yards, the factories huge in dingy brick, the yellow marshes, and Newark Bay just glimmering under the far line of haze.

"Comes seven o'clock; I gotta hurry breakfasts," she announced, plying her broom vigorously. Sweeping strip for strip, she and Polly finished the pile of floor coverings. As usual when she was actively at work, the mother dropped into her island dialect. "Your schilleran-soldier Cornwallis wants much sausage for breakfast. The plumber, also the three actor gentlemen, cat it as if it were grapes or apples! And there is Luckless Eddie—eh, I would rather feed sausage to Eddie than to the fine big sergeant. I: In poor Eddie I fear there is often emptiness after breakfast to breakfast again. This is a bad year; and he is the last man to get him a job in bad years. Cornwallis pays me four times as much, but Eddie pays whenever he can. An usher of the vaudeville gets little wages. Yet I like Eddie Luckless best."

"Edward Epaphroditus Ransom is our really sweetest boarder, if you want to know it," said the girl. "Seems one of his folks that he's named for was a governor, away back; rich old fella, and in politics. Eddie's folks is well to do, only his father. They're high swells out in Wisconsin an' them places West. His father invented, and that don't pay generally. Eddie's awful fine on education, if he is only a non-union electrician out of a job. I'll stand up for him, I tell you! But I guess you only like him 'cause he answers to a Greek name."

"Dinner he will not take here any more, and sometimes not supper. He says he gets it downtown. I don't know. We ourselves, alas! must squeeze out another fifty dollars for your father. Poor soul, he has had bad luck with his lodges again! The Litter Cranks have turned him out of being janitor, which was a paying one; and Fourteenth Ward Democrats ask him for money, after being a free society five years; and Red Men are taxing their people for paint and Ancient Ilberlians do not elect your pa
